Context
The Biology department is a part of the Health & Science Faculty, which is made up of 5 subject areas. Each department has a distinct and readily recognisable character while all deliver the distinctive mission so important to Loreto college staff and students. The Biology department is made up by approximately 1000 students and 14 teaching staff. The department follows the EDUQAS A Level specification, which is assessed by 3 exams at the end of the course. Students also complete a practical endorsement alongside their A Level. The department is well-established and high achieving and works in a collaborative and supportive environment. Staff strive to achieve strong outcomes for all students, setting high expectations and delivering well organised and planned curriculums. Biology students are supported to progress to a wide range of exciting destinations including studying Medicine, Biomedical Science, and Optometry at university. The department is passionate about extracurricular opportunities and students have the option to attend Natural Sciences club, careers talks from guest speakers, an annual Biology bake-off, and yearly trips including a London Residential.
